[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

THERE are weak and ugly spots among the sixteen hundred millions of souls that inhabit this earth. How low the average is, is hard to say.

Near Canton, in China, the well-known bandit, Chief Leong She, invited other bandit leaders to a dinner for the discussion of important business.

To show that he was a business bandit, Chief Leong She had the table decorated with the heads of kidnaped captives whose families had refused to pay ransom.

It isn't so much cutting off the head that impresses you as the fact that a Chinese, in power after five thousand years of Chinese civilization, should, with his friends really enjoy his dinner with those sightless eyes staring at him.

THE "Fatal Car of Sarajevo," in which Archduke Francis of Austria and his wife were murdered, thus started the war, has been offered for sale for the twenty-fifth time. Nobody will buy it. Four owners have been killed in the car since the original international killing. Several others have been killed by the car.

It is now called the "property of the devil." The chauffeurs say it has "an evil eye." However, they don't say which eye.

THE Smithsonian Institution will have a weather station in Southwest Africa. There, high up in the air, in the dry, clear atmosphere, science will study the sun, calculate solar radiation and, it is hoped, realize, predict weather as much as a week or a month, and even one year, in advance.

GERMANY'S "Lufthansa," the name of the great air traffic company which is practically a monopoly, plans a regular airplane service from Berlin to Peking, each plane to carry 20 passengers.

Europeans really PRODUCE and USE flying machines. But they can't beat this country when it comes to talking about flying machines.

IN CANADA the Canadian government will run a peat bog for one year to show that peat can be used economically. Perhaps someone in the Dakotas will find a way to use the "ignite" coal which is far better than peat stored away in the Dakotas and elsewhere, hundreds of millions of tons of it. "Time is of the essence," as lawyers say. A Frenchman is going to harness the hot water of the Tropical ocean.

Americans are already harnessing, and the British are planning to harness, the power of the tides. Soon somebody will harness the sun, and Twins and Another Forced to Give Up.

CAPE GRIS NEZ, France, Sept. 3.—Choppy seas today defeated three more channel aspirants when the 13-year-old Zetefeld twins and Miss Jane Darwin were forced to surrender their efforts after strenuous attempts to make headway against the tossing waters.

Miss Darwin who entered the water five minutes after the famous Brooklyn twins, Phyllis and Bernice, outstayed her youthful competitors by three hours abandoning her swim six miles out. She had been in the water seven hours.

Phyllis withdrew after four hours and Bernice, not wishing to try further without her sister, was hauled aboard the accompanying tug.

Laughlin held ticket No. 8322 Series A, which was drawn from the stage of the American theatre by a committee of three judges Thursday night. Laughlin did not learn that he was the winner of the car until he checked over ticket stubs in his possession following publication of the winning number yesterday afternoon.

6,000 PUPILS ARE READY FOR SCHOOL TREK

Buildings Will Open Here Tuesday Morning. ENROLLMENT DAY

Four Hundred Children to Enter Parochial Classes.

School bells will ring in East Liverpool Tuesday morning, calling more than 5,000 public and parochial children back to their studies after their three-month vacation.

Enrollment in the public schools is expected to pass the 5,600 mark for the opening day, while at the St. Aloysius Catholic school 400 will register. Tuesday will be devoted principally to the work of enrollment and the distribution of books. Children in the elementary schools will be dismissed as soon as the enrollment has been completed. The youngsters will get to work Wednesday morning.

Enrollment in the high school is expected to reach the 1,000 mark before the end of the next week. The freshmen class will be a record-breaker, according to Principal B. G. Ludwig.

The registration at the meeting of the first year classmen held in the high school auditorium yesterday morning, totaled 328. Approximately 60 others who were promoted from the eighth grade did not attend the session, but many of these will enroll next week.

Freshmen, who failed to report Friday morning, are requested to go to room 17 in the high school building on Tuesday, according to the schedule.

LOCAL WOMAN'S FATHER DEAD

Search was being made today for Mrs. Margaret Taggart Masters, said to be a resident of East Liverpool, whose father, Lewis Taggart, was found dead at Imperial, Pa., Thursday evening. The body of the deceased has been removed to the Fred Bradley undertaking parlors at New Cumberland, former home of the deceased, where it is being held until Mrs. Masters can be located.

Two Women and Three Men Suspected in Short-lived Dash at New Lexington.

GRANT WEAKLEY IS SLAIN MAN

One Fugitive, Shot Three Times Before His Capture, is in Serious Condition.

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Sept. 3.—Two women and three men, suspected of being accomplices in the attempted escape of two penitentiary prisoners Thursday are under arrest here today, and will be charged with first degree murder, according to County Prosecutor Dugan.

Nabbed After Auto Chase. The slain man is Grant Weakley, a guard who was shot without warning as Fred Kellogg, Toledo, and Pat Riley, Cincinnati, dashed to short-lived liberty.

Those under arrest here registered as Mrs. Ida Jean Kellogg, Detroit, wife of Fred Kellogg; George Zens, Detroit; Beaumont Sowers, Cincinnati, and Mr. and Mrs. James Waters, Newark.

Two of the men captured Thursday night by Sheriff McNabb forced the fugitives' car into a ditch near Newark.

Kellogg was shot three times before his capture and is reported in a serious condition. Riley was captured a mile from the scene of the shooting. All of the convicts have been returned to the penitentiary at Columbus.

Mid Guns in Dentist's Office. Guard Weakley was killed while the four convicts were receiving dental treatment in a physician's office here. Kellogg and Riley, it is thought, obtained guns which had been "planted" in the dentist's office, and shot Weakley as he reached for his weapon.

Two of the men captured Thursday night, it is thought, hid the guns in the dentist's office, while Mrs. Kellogg and a woman companion visited Kellogg at the Junction City brick plant branch of the penitentiary and informed her husband of the cache.

After Weakley fell, Kellogg and Riley ran into the street firing wildly. Kellogg was dropped soon after by a second deputy guard, while Riley was taken some distance away.

PEAK PASSED IN EPIDEMIC

State Believes Paralysis is Now "On The Wane."

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 3.—Belief that Ohio's epidemic of infantile paralysis has passed its "peak" and is now subsiding was voiced today by Dr. C. P. Robbins, chief of the division of communicable diseases, state health department.

Dr. Robbins, who has been directing the statewide campaign seeking to control the ravages of this dread disease, expressed the opinion that the present epidemic in the Buckeye state has been gradually decreasing since August 29.

Decision to leave the question of postponing the opening of public schools to the discretion of local health and school boards was reached at a conference held at the offices of Dr. John E. Monger, state health director, here late Friday.

Conferees included Drs. Monger, Robbins and Frost and county health commissioners and school physicians from about 40 counties throughout the state in which cases of infant paralysis either have been reported or are expected to develop.

BANKER RIDES WITH BRITISH AIR ACE ON ATLANTIC JUMP

Millionaire Canadian Pays $7,500 for Ocean Flight.

TWO MEN IN CREW Dornier-Napier Biplane Takes Off From Plymouth.

BULLETIN. LONDON, Sept. 3. Capt. Frank T. Courtney, British airman who hopped off from Plymouth at 6:26 o'clock this morning to fly to the Azores, has turned back toward Coruna, Spain, said a radiogram received here this morning.

PLYMOUTH, England, Sept. 3.—With a mysterious millionaire Canadian as a passenger, Captain Frank T. Courtney hopped off from here at 6:26 o'clock this morning in his Dornier-Napier biplane to conquer the Atlantic ocean by air.

Banker Reported Passenger. Besides the mysterious passenger, whose identity was not disclosed and who was reported to have paid $7,500 for the privilege of making the flight, Courtney was accompanied by R. J. Little, engineer, and F. W. Downer, navigator.

It was reported here today that Courtney's mysterious passenger is E. B. Hooper, of the Bank of Montreal, Canada.

The amphibian plane, heavily loaded with 750 gallons of gasoline, made a perfect takeoff. In less than two minutes after the motors of the giant land and water plane had begun to roar, the three intrepid aviators and their wealthy passenger were out of sight.

Courtney was somewhat undecided as to his exact route. He anticipated, however, that after passing Ireland he would take the southern route, possibly stopping at the Azores to refuel his plane, and then proceed to St. John's, Newfoundland, for another stop before starting the final lap to New York.

Flier is Optimistic. Before starting, Courtney turned to the little group which had gathered to see him off and said: "I am full of optimism. I am sure we'll do the job."

It was thought probable here that (Continued on Page Eight)

EIGHTH OHIO VOLUNTEERS, HERE SUNDAY FOR THEIR ANNUAL REUNION, MADE IMMEDIATE RESPONSE TO MCKINLEY'S CALL FOR MEN

By George T. Blake
Sergeant, Eighth Ohio Volunteers.
The Eighth Ohio Volunteers, who will hold their sixth annual reunion in East Liverpool on Sunday and Monday, made immediate response to the call of President William McKinley for troops for service in the war with Spain in 1898.

Known as the "President's Own," the proclamation of the nation's chief executive was viewed by the members of this command in the nature of a personal appeal and soon after it was issued the regiment was in the field ready for any duty.

Considered one of the most compact and best trained bodies of citizen troops in the state, the "Eighth" was the first Ohio regiment chosen for foreign service, having been made a unit of the American Expeditionary Forces which captured Santiago de Cuba.

The regiment had a twelve-company formation, as follows: A, Bucyrus; B, Akron; C, Polk; D, Wooster; E, East Liverpool; F, Canton; G, Wadsworth; H, Shreve; I, Canton; K, Alliance; L, Canton; M, Mansfield. The hospital and signal corps were located in Canton.

Colonel Curtis V. Hard, Wooster, was in command, with Lieutenant Colonel Charles Dick, Akron, as second ranking officer. Majors Edward Vollrath, Bucyrus; Frederick C. Bryan, Akron, and Charles C. Weybrecht, Alliance, were the respective battalion heads.

Under orders of the governor, the regiment was assembled at Akron, April 25, 1898, spending two days there. The soldiers slept on floors and benches in public halls and elsewhere as there had been no time to prepare proper accommodations for them.

In the goodness of his heart, Turnkey Jack Washer, afterwards a famous United States secret service man and body guard for presidents, placed a number of nice soft beds in the Summit county jail at the disposal of the soldiers and earned their gratitude.

On April 28, the regiment entered Camp Bushnell, Columbus, where, on May 13, it was mustered into the service of the United States as the Eighth regiment, Ohio Volunteer Infantry. Here the command received its first intensive training.

On May 16, the regiment was ordered to Camp Alger, near Falls Church, Va., some nine miles from the city of Washington, where thousands of soldiers were trained for the war. The "Eighth" was one of the first regiments to arrive and rendered excellent service in preparing the camp.

The Ohio soldiers were brigaded with the Sixth Illinois and Sixth Massachusetts, constituting the second brigade, first division, second army corps. The three regiments were located close to one another, Colonel Foster of the Massachusetts regiment being temporarily in command.

For a particular reason the Eighth Ohio boys will never forget their association with the Sixth Massachusetts, which was encamped upon a hill affording something of a commanding position. There were times when the Ohio soldiers were uncomfortable—decisively and vociferously so—in their comments upon their neighbors.

Protest Against Drum Corps Leader. It was this way: In lieu of a band the Sixth Massachusetts had a drum corps which, contained at least 60 players, each one a champion noise-maker. The leader and drum major of this prize aggregation was a good natured Dutchman with a preponderance of girth and an absence of imagination.

Every morning a half hour before the reveille of the "Eighth," which was sounded at 5 o'clock, this drum corps, by direction of the aforementioned leader, would start playing, making racket enough to awaken the dead. No soldier cares to be disturbed before his regular getting up time, but slumber for the Ohio soldiers was off once the din started. It robbed (Continued on Page Fifteen.)

BEERY, HATTON AT CERAMIC

"Firemen, Save My Child" is Labor Day Offering.

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, the inimitable comedy team, who have convulsed audiences throughout the world with their antics in "Behind the Front" and "We're in the Navy Now" are back once more in what has been acclaimed the funniest farce of their careers "Firemen, Save My Child." It comes to the Ceramic theatre on Monday for a four day run.

"Firemen, Save My Child" is declared to have hit a new high water mark in laugh films. With the same director, Edward Sutherland, and the same scenarist and comedy constructor, Monty Brice, who made the previous Beery-Hatton vehicle, a riot of uninterrupted laughter has been brought to the screen.

This quartet, Beery, Hatton, Sutherland and Brice, who have been aptly termed the "Four Horsemen of Hilarity" began their work together in "Behind the Front." It ripened into a greater success in "We're in the Navy Now." In "Firemen, Save My Child" with all four possessing an understanding of the work of the others deepened by their previous association, they are said to have attained the heights.

After twice appearing in federal government uniforms, Beery and Hatton decided to become municipal in their choice of costume. In the plot of "Firemen, Save My Child" and it is a comedy with a plot, they found an ideal vehicle. So they donned the blue of the fire fighters, with the same difficulty at finding uniforms which fit that beset them in the army and navy pictures and find themselves literally catapulted into a series of side-splitting adventures in which they succeed in all but wrecking one town's entire fire fighting system. However, they prove themselves heroes in spite of everything, involuntary heroes, but heroes nevertheless.

Tom Kennedy, who was their pet menace in their previous pictures, again makes life miserable for Beery and Hatton as the fire captain. Joseph Girard, who also appeared in the previous Beery-Hatton farces, is the dignified fire chief. Josephine Dunn, petite, blonde, beautiful graduate of the Paramount Picture School, supplies the love interest with Walter Goss, another graduate of the school as the juvenile.

OLD KING COAL

A few years ago experts were worrying about the coal supply. Consumption was so great it was predicted we would soon be out of fuel. Now Old King Coal isn't taken so seriously. In the last eight years the generation of electric power has increased at a high rate every year. In furnaces, steamships, locomotives, oil is replacing coal. We don't worry as much as we used to. There is always something to take the place of something else.

CAN'T PREDICT

Dr. Herman Adler, well-known scientist, says the element of accurate prediction is perhaps the most important element in scientific work. That's why the study of human behavior is difficult. You can't predict with much accuracy what folks are going to do. That's one reason why they are so interesting. One rather sad thing can be said for most of us—we are more intent on doing what we want to do than on what we know we ought to do.

MODERATION

Lindbergh, though it is not his fault, furnishes another example of the joy and value of moderation. Over indulgence in pleasure brings pain. Psychologists taught us that long ago. Lindbergh, for the first few days after his arrival home, must have been wonderfully thrilled and stimulated by applause and honor. Now he has grown sick of it. He is worn out with it. The lasting good is the good of moderation.

COMFORT

An opera star and a picture star have both lost their health by trying too hard to reduce weight. Better be fat and comfortable than thin and miserable. How you look is important, but how you feel is more so.

LAND OF THE FREE

America's world reputation has been based on the belief that she is the land of the free. But America cannot be altogether the land of the free until every bit of the spirit of intolerance is wiped out. The founders of the republic came here to find opportunity for freedom of worship. Before the Republic fulfills those ideals, that same feeling for freedom, that same spirit—and a complete religious tolerance—must extend into every hamlet in this country.

MISS REVIER AT THE STRAND

Mildred Harris Also Appears in "Wandering Girls."

small-town girl who preferred the wall of the saxophone to the stern voice of her parents, she has ample opportunity to combine her dancing and acting ability.

"Wandering Girls" also shows Mildred Harris, the lovely blonde favorite of the screen, as a professional dancer who finds time to rob wealthy patrons of their jewels in-between her execution of the latest dance steps. Her partner in crime, as well as dance partner, is Armand Kaliz, said to be perfectly suited to the suave villainous of his characterization.

Robert Agnew as the hero, Eugene Besserer as the mother and William Welsh as the father are also included in the cast of "Wandering Girls," written by Dorothy Howell and directed by Ralph Ince.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1927.

Let's Reconsider, Councilmen

For some inexplicable reason, the city council has refused to give East Liverpool electors an opportunity to pass judgment upon a proposal to strengthen the fire fighting force to the point demanded by the National Fire Underwriters' association.

By a vote of 4 to 3, President N. P. Kerr casting the deciding ballot, the solons have relegated to the waste basket a chamber of commerce recommendation, calling for submission of a proposed one-mill levy to the electorate at the November 8 election. Solons George A. Hughes, Charles E. Hayes and Clyde F. Goodballet supported the question, while Councilmen Thomas Farrall, W. H. Kelley and L. M. Poole voted against it. Member Otto Kommel was absent.

Council had been asked to permit the voters to decide whether they desired to increase the strength of the fire department from its present force of 13, including a chief and assistant chief, to 28, in order to satisfy the insurance companies which are rapidly withdrawing from the East Liverpool field because of the inadequate protection. And much to the surprise of the public, the solons turned thumbs down on a proposition that does not involve one cent of expense insofar as its submission is concerned.

And, too, the councilmanic action seemed to indicate that the law-makers are not interested in the soaring cost of fire insurance, which has increased as much as 50 per cent during the last year.

Also, solons are overlooking the fact that nine men were dropped from the fire fighting personnel five years ago, and in the interim only two additional workers have been given places. And even with 13 men on the job, the two-platoon system, approved by the voters several years ago, permits not more than seven firemen available at one time, and five of them are on duty at the Central station. This means that the two outlying sections, East End and Northside, have but one man to answer fire calls.

Unless councilmen reconsider their action, an initiative proposal, which must be in the hands of the election board not later than September 9, should be prepared. This will necessitate circulation of petitions, for which the time is limited.

The sensible procedure, councilmen, is to call a special meeting and again vote on the proposal. The question should go before the voters this fall.

The Drunkard's Week-End

The province of Oviedo in Spain has found an admirable way to combat the evil of Sunday drunkenness.

It has been customary there, as in American cities, to punish week-end drinking to excess with a nominal fine. That has had little effect. The number of "drunk and disorderly" prisoners has grown steadily. The magistrates do not like to send workmen to jail for any length of time, because that imposes hardship on their families. So the governor has adopted the brilliant plan of adding to the usual fine in such cases five days in jail, to served not on successive week days but on successive Sundays.

That leaves every drunkard free to work right through the week for the support of his family and then puts him safe in jail, where he cannot spend his money getting drunk, for the next five week-ends.

A few such Sundays ought to work a cure, if anything can. Some of our American cities facing the same problem ought to try it.

No Executions In Denmark

For some years Denmark has been practically without capital punishment. Now the minister of justice proposes to make it legally so. He will introduce in the next parliament legislation looking to the statutory abolition of capital punishment. This legislation will at the same time provide for life imprisonment without possibility of pardon.

This is something that appeals to many Americans who do not feel right about capital punishment, although they hold that as long as it is the penalty provided by law for certain crimes it should be carried out. Life imprisonment, it is recognized, would be just as effective as capital punishment in protecting society, if it were to be really "life" imprisonment. The frequency of pardon and parole, however, has put this form of punishment into disrepute and strengthened capital punishment.

Capital punishment is, of course, the taking of human life. The fact that it is done in defense of society and in punishment for grave crimes may justify it in the eyes of many, but it does not alter the fact that it is legalized killing, which may have brutalizing effects on the very society it is supposed to protect.

The whole subject needs serious thought in this country. If life imprisonment were made to mean precisely what it says, perhaps we could do away with hanging and electrocution as aids to justice.

Oil Or Beauty

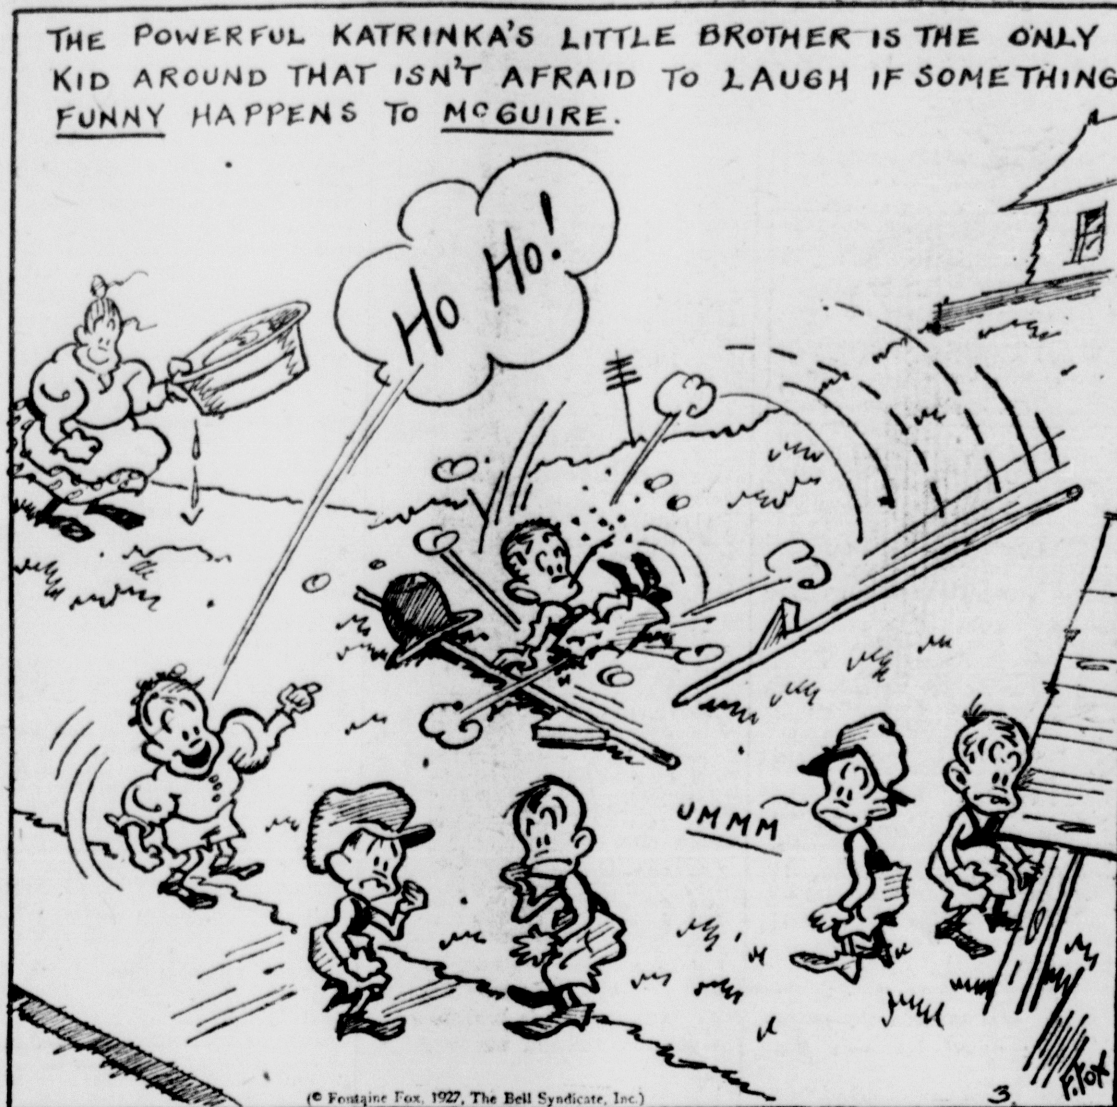

The little town of Oxford, Kan., with a population around 800, recently faced a great decision. The residents had to choose between beauty and ugliness, between pleasant lawns with flower beds and a city of oil derricks.

Some weeks ago the town authorities adopted an ordinance which limited drilling to one well in each city block. Citizens couldn't quite agree on that. More wells would mean more money. So they put it to a vote and courageous Oxford voted almost two to one against repealing the ordinance.

Sinclair Lewis should be paged and told of this.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Growth of Life Insurance.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3.—How America dominates the life insurance business of the world is shown by figures compiled by the Association of Life Insurance Presidents with the cooperation of the department of Commerce and other agencies. The life insurance in force in the United States and Canada is approximately three times as much as in all the other countries of the globe combined and the volume of life insurance written this year and next in the United States and Canada will exceed the amount in force in the rest of the world put together.

The comparative figures cover 1924, the most recent year for which data could be obtained. At that time there was approximately $90,000,000,000 of insurance in force in the world, of which the companies of the two American countries held more than $67,000,000,000 or almost three-fourths. United States companies held $63,500,000,000, over two-thirds of the world total, and Canadian companies $3,300,000,000, or more than one-thirtieth.

At the close of the calendar year 1926 the insurance in force of the companies of the United States had jumped to the amazing total of $82,500,000,000 and at the end of the current year it will undoubtedly exceed the world total in 1924. These figures do not include government war risk insurance.

Companies of the United Kingdom in 1924 had policies aggregating $9,500,000,000, over one-seventh of the world's amount, while those of Australia and New Zealand, including government insurance, held policies totaling $1,800,000,000.

In all, the companies of the English-speaking nations afforded over $78,000,000,000 of life insurance protection, which was more than five-sixths of all life insurance in force in the world. Japanese companies had on their books an equivalent of $2,400,000,000; boarders sit out front on pleasant evenings.

A few blocks northward is a Mills Hotel where shabby genteel patrons sit at windows. I have never seen them talk to each other—they seem only to sit like statues and stare. Copyright, 1927, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Abe Martin Says

I don't know how it is in other parts o' th' country, but in Indiana, th' feller that gets defeated for office laughs last.

Prob'ly Tilford Moots is as well informed as any one in this country. He remarked 'day that if some-buddy don't git up a new high-powered camel th' caterpillar's goin' t' git all th' Sahara desert business.

"NOAH NUMSKULL"

thing approaching such a growth, the increase there being from 115 millions in 1905 to 2.4 billions in 1924.

The British Isles, known as the cradle of all forms of insurance, lag far behind the American pace in building up the life insurance business. United Kingdom companies in 1909 held policies totaling 4 billions, almost half as much as the total for this country, but in 1924 the British total had only grown to 9.5 billions while the United States was almost 64 billions, and the amount of insurance per capita was considerably less than 40 per cent of that in this country.

Hard Sledding for Solicitors. Why the country that originated life insurance and is preeminent in marine, fire, and other forms of insurance should make so little of life insurance is an interesting question. The answer is that direct solicitation of life insurance as it is practiced in the United States and Canada is practically unknown in England, except in industrial insurance.

British conservatism, prejudices, and business customs make it hard sledding for solicitors—so hard, in fact, that the United States companies have withdrawn from England and only a few Canadian companies are still battling to break down the barriers.

American methods of salesmanship do not make a hit in the mother country and it is practically impossible to use them. In the first place, it is stated, the securing of an interview with a prospective client is a task of great difficulty which would baffle the ingenuity of the most resourceful solicitor. Then when obstacles to the approach have been overcome and the prospect has been persuaded that he needs a policy the request to sign the application rarely brings forth the desired signature on the dotted line. Almost invariably the prospect tells the agent to go see his—the prospect's—lawyer or banker. Thereupon it develops that these gentlemen usually have arrangements with some company to turn to it for a small commission all business of their clients, and the sale made by the agent is likely to be diverted to a rival office. Agents of English companies do not attempt the direct approach, but secure their prospects through acquaintances and business connections who expect a share in the commissions on all business written as a result of contacts established through them.

Under such conditions it is said that a life insurance agent was a record-breaker in the United States would starve to death in England. Life insurance in its more modern form was virtually unknown until the Amicable Society was established in England in 1696. Other companies were gradually started there, but for many years it was prohibited on the continent of Europe as immoral.

Introduced from Great Britain to America, the first society was organized in Philadelphia in 1759 for the relief of Presbyterian ministers and their widows and children, with a similar society for the benefit of Episcopal clergymen coming ten years later. The first company to undertake a general business was formed in the same city in 1796. Other companies appeared, but all the earlier companies combined fire or marine insurance, or banking and trust business, as well as annuities, with life insurance and gradually abandoned the latter.

The first mutual company authorized in the United States to do solely a life insurance business was chartered in 1835.

ALLIANCE MAN LOSES FINGERS

William Horner Injured in Accident on Lisbon Hill.

William Horner, 56, Hester street, Alliance, suffered the amputation of four fingers on his right hand about 9:30 o'clock last night when the machine in which he was riding with Henry Erb, Atwater, overturned on the Lisbon hill, just outside of Wellsville.

Erb was arrested by local police shortly after the accident, charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. He was to be given a hearing before Mayor Wallace Fogo today. He claims that the brakes on the machine refused to hold and that he was forced to turn the machine into the embankment on the upper side of the road to save the car from plunging over a 100-foot embankment on the other side.

Passing motorists took Horner and Erb to Wellsville but the latter made his escape while his companion was receiving medical attention at the office of Dr. J. V. Rice. He was captured at Third street about an hour later while attempting to make his escape in an automobile driven by an Italian. Horner was taken to the City hospital where his fingers were amputated.

Wellsville police arrested Thomas Smith, Midland negro, who is said to have collided with another car which was parked near the scene of the accident last night. He was to face Mayor Fogo today upon a reckless driving charge.

EMPIRE G. O. P. NAMES TICKET

The Republican ticket in Empire this year will contain only a few strangers to the present administration.

These are George Allison and Alex Keenan, Jr., for council places, and Owen Hall, for marshal. One other change, if the ticket is successful, means that the present mayor, Raymond Hall, will be a member of council and Sherman Carnahan, present solicitor, will become mayor.

The ticket, nominated by petition, follows:

Sherman Carnahan, mayor; Owen

Hall, marshal; E. L. Van Dyke, Jr., clerk; T. A. Griffith, treasurer. For council, John W. Young, George Allison, Alex Keenan, Jr., Joseph Stone, Audrey Whitcomb, Raymond Hall.

This petition is now ready to file. But there is to be opposition. Two additional tickets are said to be in the field, brought out, it is claimed, because of differences of opinion regarding improvements.

Henry Keenan, Sr., is said to be back of one ticket while the other is reported as having the backing of E. L. Van Dyke and the ministers of the village.

SERGEANT QUIRT IS INTRODUCED

THE SERGEANT WASTES NO TIME

A NEW STAR LODGER AT COGNAC PETE'S

TENTH EPISODE
CAPT. FLAGG summons his officers, and to visit he introduces his new Top Sergeant, in a fulsome complimentary speech:

"Gentlemen, this is First Sergt. Quirt. I've soldiered with him around the world, and there isn't a smarter marine afloat or ashore—in fact, that's his trouble, he's too smart. But when he's drunk he's the filthiest bun that ever wore a uniform. Why, he's even worse than I am. He's a shifty baby, so don't lend him money, and don't let the men play cards with him. He knows every trick in the deck except how to deal himself a commission."

Flagg dismisses the officers, then looks for Charmaine and finds her gone. He has a final word with Quirt.

"Drill the tail off the puppies. Keep 'em in hot water till they're hard boiled."

Then into the side car of the waiting motorcycle with Kiper at the wheel. And off for Bar le Duc.

Sergt. Quirt wastes no time when he faces opportunity. A private brings in his outfit. He turns to Charmaine, who waits admiringly and invitingly.

"Where do you live, little one?"

"Wis my father, Cognac Pete."

"Then"—to the private, "take my stuff to Cognac Pete's."

And Sergt. Quirt becomes a welcome guest at the tavern where Capt. Flagg has held undisputed place as the star lodger.

Visions, reader, of the battles of Manila and Tientsin. A handsome Sergeant, a pretty French girl and a rival rollicking away his leave ninety miles away. There's another story in the making.

LADY CALLED FATE

By JOSEPHINE K. LITTLEJOHN

SYNOPSIS.

JOHN MOORE, New York business man, goes to Tucson, Ariz., on business, expecting to return to New York the next day. He meets a college associate, Philip Morton, who has business in Mexico. Both drink heavily of tequila and in the subsequent mixup in identity Moore finds himself in Mexico.

Here he meets the girl—Ruth Henshaw—who needs his help. He also meets her uncle, Barton Henshaw, as well as Rodriguez, Lopez, Clench, Ramon, the Ambassador, and Wong, the Chinese cook. John finds that Morton is involved in an arms plot with Henshaw and his friends and is warned to get Ruth out of the country. First, Clench, then Wong are murdered, and John flees the country on horseback with Ruth. They take refuge in a cave.

Stew and Beechy, friends of Ruth's with whom John drank tequila in Tucson, rescue them.

CHAPTER FORTY.

Beechy, at the wheel, from time to time flung news of the road over his shoulder. But he did not look around; nor did Juan who sat beside him. "This first six miles out of Arivaca is the worst piece of the road. After this we can make time."

"Fine!" called John Moore from the back seat. From time to time Beechy caught the tones of their voices. "He's a dead sport!" he thought admiringly. "Going right along in spite of the way she treated him this morning." And then he fell to wondering anxiously again about Stew. Juan had brought his message back from Amado. He was getting along without any trouble so far; but with a crew like that aboard you never could tell. He himself should have gone in with him. Joe could take care of Ruth all right.

"This is the Nogales Tucson road," he called, after a while. "Oh, yes!" John called back. Beechy stepped on the throttle and the car raced forward. "This is the Twin Buttes Camp," he announced presently.

The car sped on. "You see the mission—San Xavier—ahead there now."

"Oh, yes," called John. On and on, faster and faster. "Here's the Sasabe road, where you must have turned that night."

"By Jove! It is? Let's have a look at it, will you? Slow down a little." But when Beechy obligingly had done as he requested John didn't even look at the road. He leaned forward and touched Beechy on the shoulder. "Listen," he said. "Do you know a good minister?"

The car almost stopped. "A minister?" exclaimed Beechy. "I don't often use them. Good for what?"

"Well," said John Moore, "for marrying people." "Marrying?" Juan, hanging on this wheel a second, Beechy turned squarely around and faced the two in the tonneau.

John Moore sat leisurely back again on the seat and his left hand closed over Ruth Henshaw's for all the world to see. "You poor idiot," he commented commiseratingly. "What's the matter with you? Haven't you ever heard of people marrying?"

Beechy only looked at Ruth, but she only looked at John Moore.

"My Lord!" exploded Beechy. "Are you going to marry a girl who was so darned ornery to you, only this morning, that I've been weeping for you ever since? Are you?"

"I am," said John Moore promptly. "Oh," said Ruth, "I wasn't really."

Beechy gazed at them. "That beats me! When are you thinking of getting married?"

"Well," said John, "we are leaving on that one o'clock train for New York tonight."

"Oh!" Beechy's high, clear yodel sank to a sigh. "Gosh!" he lamented. "Stew was right! Joe had all the luck! All right, old dears! There must be a minister hiding out some place. I'll find him. I'll get you married all right. I'll make the punch myself! Give me the wheel!"

It was a little after five o'clock when the car drew up at the Santa Rita. John Moore sprang down.

"Listen, Beechy," he said. "We've doped it out. If you'll get the parson and rooms and flowers, we'll go after the license and things. But we'll need your car."

"Secrets from Brides, Ruth," said Beechy and drew John Moore a little aside. "What about those fellows who are after you, man?" he asked.

John Moore clapped him on the shoulder and laughed like a boy. "Aw," he said, "forget them. This is my day, Beechy, my day!"

Beechy surveyed him. "It is!" he said in awestruck tones. "Good Lord, what a pity! You could wreck the bank at Monte Carlo!"

"Oh, that!" cried John Moore. "Why, man alive, I'm going to marry my girl today!"

"Beat it!" said Beechy. "Wait! Whom do you want at your wedding?"

"Ruth decided that. Just you and Townner for witnesses. It's a shame that Stew isn't here. But it will be better to get her away."

"Right you are. I'll fix things. Hurry or the courthouse will be closed."

"Where's a jeweler's shop?" "At the corner, there. Wait, have you plenty of money?"

"Traveler's checks. But thanks, old man!"

At the corner John Moore dashed into the jeweler's and briefly out again. "He'll wait for us," he said.

"Now, Juan, the courthouse, please." Down Congress street, while the daylight fled to the mountain peaks at the foot of it and the street lamps gleamed a pathway through the dusk. The two in the rear seat of the car held each other's hand tightly clasped and spoke not at all.

Ruth Henshaw could hear the mad beating of her heart as if it were racing against that stronger, deeper pulse of excitement that throbbed within her.

Down the narrow, twisting side street, lined with low, flat-roofed adobes to the courthouse and the old plaza that had been the heart of the Old Pueblo. In the twilight the shadows came stealing.

"This is an old town," said Ruth dreamily. "Spanish governors lived on that corner two hundred years ago."

John Moore made her pause just then, half way up the courthouse walk. "Did they?" he murmured.

"See, the first stars are coming out; I watched three nights ago alone, and now we are going in to get a marriage license, you and I."

Back in the throng of cars, moving eastward up Congress street. It was darker now and John Moore moved nearer. "They are going home, all those hurrying people. And so are we, my darling."

His tenderness was a part of that throbbing excitement. She answered him slowly. "Where is your home?"

"I haven't had one since I was nine until tonight! It's wherever I am going with you! Just at this particular moment it's the department store you spoke of—to outfit our two babes-in-the-woods selves!"

"I don't need many things," said Ruth more quickly.

"You don't want them? I hoped you'd want lots of things. You see I haven't had an interesting career or anything. I'm not the kind of a mining engineer they write books about. I've just stuck in an office most of the time. The only thing I could do decently was to make a little money. I've been hoping you might like it. That I could buy things for you; that you'd like to spend it; I don't know just what I hoped."

But Ruth knew, and at his need the throbbing excitement died away for a moment. "Oh," she cried, "it was only that it didn't matter if you had no money at all! And you haven't really! It's all mine! Because, don't you see? all these years you've been making it for me!"

"You darling!" said John unsteadily. "What are we stopping here for in the light?"

"It's the shop."

They drifted up the aisle of the brilliantly lighted shop and paused before a counter from which an elaborately beehooded and beribboned doll stared at them disdainfully. She felt in every silken frounce of her makeup that these people were not seeking a telephone doll.

And she was entirely correct. John's hand tightened on Ruth's arm as he gazed down at her with an expression sufficiently denoting that.

"What color do I like for girl's clothes?" he was saying. "I don't believe that I ever noticed girl's clothes until two days ago. But since Tubutama I like eyes and skies and things to match. Let's make 'em blue."

The telephone doll was moved to one side. A dark-eyed, bright-eyed, slender little lady stood behind the counter surveying the man and the girl. She had seen all kinds.

"Is there something for you?" she asked.

"Fine!" said John. "We want a lot of things."

"This is the fancy goods" said the Little lady doubtfully. She already knew what they wanted.

"Exactly," said John Moore. "We want fancy ones."

"Oh, no," expostulated Ruth. "She means yarns and things like that. We," she appealed to the little bright-eyed lady, "we want clothes."

"Blue ones," put in John. "Oh, and we ought to get one white one, shouldn't we?"

Ruth looked helplessly at the little bright-eyed lady. The throbbing excitement would not let her think clearly. "There are so many things," she said vaguely.

"A white one—with some of that floaty stuff," John went on.

"They come boxed now—velvets," said the little lady, but she was watching the girl. "Tell me, in a general way—"

"Everything for tonight, and until we reach New York, in a week."

"Make it twice," said John. "We haven't even a toothbrush."

The little lady glanced his way. "If you'll go down to that end of the store, sir, you'll find everything for yourself, and I'll go with the young lady."

"But I'm going with her, too!" "But you can't!" said Ruth, helplessly.

"Why not? Who says so? I'm going."

HARRY LANGDON AT AMERICAN

"Long Pants" is Tragedy Told With Laughs.

A tragedy told with laughs is what Harry Langdon calls "Long Pants," his new First National starring feature which opens a four-day run at the American theatre on Labor Day. Radical departure from all the accepted methods of obtaining screen comedy characterizes this amazing star's latest photoplay. It's a "different" story, a daring story; a story no less, a genius than Langdon would attempt to tell with laughs.

Based on the always tragic theme of mother-love, with Gladys Brockwell appearing as Harry's mother, the story winds a well-ordered and logical way through a series of amorous adventures which takes Harry from one tragic situation to another. He topples out of the frying pan into the fire. Yet audiences roar!

The denouement is a crescendo of dramatic emotion so daring that no screen comedian ever dreamed of attempting it. Langdon not only attempts it—he does it. It is a climax as daring and unconventional as has ever been assayed in the heaviest drama.

And it dissolves from thrills to laughs so deftly, so naturally, that it becomes another typically Langdonian gesture—the sort of thing which distinguishes every Langdon feature and stamps the star as truly a genius.

Long foreshadowed
by famous ESSEX achievements

The ideal transportation attained in this Greatest Essex Super-Six was long foreshadowed in the series of individual supremacies by which Essex leadership towered mountain high above the field.

World standards set by Essex itself must be surpassed to achieve it. Standards of comfort and performance, standards of riding ease and economy, and the outstanding standard of value.

Here is all that Essex gave in the past plus advancements that are new and unique in motordom. Here is 50 miles an hour all day long, far greater speed if you want it, and a riding ease that is actually like flying.

Today's Essex, like Hudson, has an exclusive high-compression, anti-knock motor that, using ordinary gasoline, turns waste heat to power. These motors are the most powerful and efficient in the world per cubic inch of piston displacement, within our knowledge.

No matter how high your expectations, they will be brilliantly met, and more, when you ride in the New Essex Super-Six.

FOUR METHODIST PASTORS TO BE RETURNED, HERE

PASTORS WILL GO TO MEETING AT DELAWARE

North-East Ohio Conference Will Open Tuesday.

THREE SESSIONS

Dr. Frank G. Fowler to Conduct Memorial Services.

East Liverpool's four Methodist Episcopal ministers will in all probability be returned to their old charges for another year at the annual North-East Ohio conference which opens at Delaware next Tuesday.

Dr. Frank G. Fowler is now completing the third year of service as pastor of the First church. Rev. George C. Westlake, pastor of the Pennsylvania Avenue church, and Rev. J. Lloyd McQueen, of the Boyce church, came here two years ago, the former from a Canton charge and the latter from school where he had just completed his studies. Rev. C. B. Conn came to East Liverpool from Brilliant on December 1, 1925, succeeding Rev. S. Lee Whitman, Sr.

Wilson Smith will be the lay delegate from the First church, while Paul Dyke will be the junior representative. T. H. Wilkinson is the delegate and James Miles, alternate, from the Pennsylvania Avenue church, while W. L. Mautz is delegate and William Hoyt, alternate, from the Boyce church.

Members of the Orchard Grove Avenue church have elected Howard Steel, delegate, and Charles Skinnell, alternate. John Shay and Donald Myler will represent the congregation at the boys' meetings. Sessions for the lay and boy delegates will be held on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Three Conferences To Meet. The Orchard Grove Avenue and Anderson Methodist Episcopal churches in charge of Rev. Mr. Conn, have been divided. The pastor now devotes his entire time to the Northside church. Members of the Orchard Grove congregation have asked for the return of Rev. Conn for another year.

Business sessions of the conferences will be conducted separately, other meetings being held in common. Dr. F. E. Glover, noted English church worker, of London, England, will address the members of the three conferences at 4 p. m. each day.

Bishop W. F. McDowell, Washington, will preside at sessions of the North-East conference; Bishop Joseph F. Berry, Philadelphia, at the Ohio conference, and Bishop Luther B. Wilson, of New York, at the West conference.

Eleven ministers and 11 laymen will be named from the North-East Ohio conference to attend the meeting of the general conference which will be held in Kansas City next May.

Dr. Fowler will conduct a memorial service for the conference at the Tuesday afternoon session.

then the power problem will be settled for the next hundred million years, anyhow.

GREAT BRITAIN intends to protect ignorant investors against get-rich-quick stock salesmen and other schemers. Peddling stocks from door to door is to be stopped, selling stocks through the mail restricted and watched. The oil, real estate and mining schemes that rob investors in this country would not be possible in Great Britain.

A STOCK BROKER whose wife wanted $36,000 a year, alimony while waiting for a divorce, complained that the lady bought 28 pairs of shoes in three days averaging more than $15 a pair. He made over $50,000 in stocks one year and $500,000 the next. His wife, aged 43, paid $250 for a handbag. All this shows that we are living in prosperous times.

A PROMINENT citizen of New York wants the citizens and the city combined to wipe out the slums by tearing down dark, cold, unsanitary tenements. He would raise a fund of $500,000,000 half to be contributed by 500 rich men and half by the city. The idea is good and the fact that an old man with millions and every possible comfort for himself should concentrate on bettering conditions for the poor is encouraging, although the city will not spend the money as suggested.

THE way to wipe out slums is to compete with them and give better dwellings for rents lower than those in the filthy tenements. The Metropolitan Life Insurance company set the example, and Mr. Stadler, financial manager of that company, has shown that it is possible to provide comfortable rooms for $9 a month each while making your money earn 8 per cent interest. John D. Rockefeller, Jr. is also building houses admirably planned, with all conveniences on a magnificent scale, for low rents. If that idea spreads the slums will disappear as the old-fashioned cabs disappeared when the taxi came in.

Banker Rides

Courtney would stop at Horta, the Azores, to refuel his plane.

Captain Courtney brought his plane here yesterday from the Calshot aerodrome, where his start had been deferred six times by adverse weather conditions or trouble with his plane.

Only a few persons besides army mechanics witnessed the start of the hazardous adventure. Mrs. Courtney accompanied her husband in a launch to the spot where the "Whale" was moored and kissed him goodbye as he stepped into the cockpit.

Courtney's early start came as a surprise, as it was expected he intended to wait until later in the day before taking off. The flier arrived at the naval air base at 6 o'clock and finding the weather in every way favorable, decided to start immediately.

"Whale" is Amphibian Plane. Courtney taxied his plane twice in a circle, and rose from the water as the plane circled the third time. The ship rose easily, and soon vanished into the early morning air. It was estimated that the plane was making 100 miles an hour as it passed out of sight.

The "Whale" is an amphibian plane of gigantic proportions. When Courtney first announced this intention, some weeks ago, of flying across the Atlantic, he was conceded to have an excellent chance, for the expedition was completely equipped and the plane apparently capable of long sustained flight.

Disappointments followed, however. On six separate occasions Courtney announced his intention to start, but some unforeseen circumstance always arose which necessitated a postponement.

The tanks of the great plane were filled with gasoline late last night, and the necessary supplies stowed aboard.

Starts 72 Hours After Princess.

Captain Courtney's start follows by 72 hours the ill-fated attempt of Princess Louise of Wertheim, Captain Leslie Hamilton and Lieut. Col. F. F. Minchin to cross the ocean from England to America by air. The three fliers, who left Upton, England, early Wednesday morning in an attempt to be the first to make the trans-Atlantic flight from east to west, apparently have been lost, for no word has been heard from them since they passed over Galway, Ireland, on the way to sea Wednesday morning.

Captain Courtney, a member of the British royal air force, is one of England's best known fliers. He served with distinction in the World war and was one of the first Englishmen to prepare for a trans-Atlantic flight since the achievement of Charles A. Lindbergh awakened the world to the possibilities of trans-oceanic flying.

Not "Stunt" Flight, Courtney Says. Courtney has been most emphatic, all during his long weeks of preparation, that his is not a "stunt" flight, but an attempt to pioneer in ocean transportation by means of the flying boat. His plane, equally at home in the air, on land or water, is the same type as that used by Raold Amundsen in his Arctic explorations last year. It is equipped with all known safety devices, including both sending and receiving wireless sets. Necessary adjustments to the devices were largely to blame for the many postponements of the flight.

The original plan had been to fly from Valentia, Ireland, to Newfoundland, but Courtney indicated before the start that although he would pass over Ireland, he might choose the southern routes and head toward the Azores.

ODD FELLOWS PICNIC TODAY

Lodgemen From Tri-State District at Rock Springs Park.

Odd Fellows from all parts of the tri-state district are attending the I. O. O. F. basket picnic which is being held at Rock Springs park today. The outing was twice arranged for in June but was postponed on both occasions on account of rain.

Mrs. Leonhart, who formerly resided at Deer Wall, W. Va., had been making her home with her daughter for the past 15 years. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church.

She is survived by four sons and four daughters: W. H. Leonhart, Baltimore, Md.; George F. and Paul J. Leonhart, Parkersburg; M. C. Leonhart, Russell, Ky.; Mrs. G. B. Burris, Leavittsville, O.; Mrs. Homer Marshall, Parkersburg, and Mrs. M. E. Combs and Mrs. Stiltgenbauer, of this city.

Funeral services will be held in the Stiltgenbauer home at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, in charge of Rev. J. Lloyd McQueen, pastor of the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church. The body will be taken to Parkersburg for burial.

No Trace of Plane

have been the last trace of the missing plane was seen several hundred miles southeast of New York City, a point far away from the course the aviators intended to fly to Ottawa.

Canadian officials searching for the plane have been informed by the British air ministry that a light was seen midway across the Atlantic on Wednesday night by the German-American oil tanker Josiah Macy.

Meanwhile, with hopes of the fliers being found alive decreasing hourly, every agency at the command of Canada was being pressed in the search for the fliers. All through the night, radio stations throughout the Dominion hummed with broadcasts seeking to pick up some word of the princess and her two companions, but without success.

The hope still persists that the fliers may have been able to make a safe landing at some isolated spot in Canada or New Foundland, and that their emergency rations will keep them alive for several days, or, on the other hand, if the St. Raphael was forced to descend at sea, the hope is held out that the collapsible rubber lifeboat carried by the fliers will keep them afloat until rescued by some ship.

WEIRTON POLICE STAGE RAIDS

Five Persons Arrested in Round up Made by Authorities.

Chief of Police H. L. Brooks, of Weirton, launched a drive on alleged liquor violators in that place with the arrest of five persons, three men and two women who were held for action before the next session of the Hancock county grand jury.

Chief Brooks, appeared before Justice Wm. Fleming on Thursday and secured five warrants upon information individually furnished in which the sale, transfer and possession of moonshine liquor was charged.

Aided by Weirton officers, the chief visited the place occupied by Joseph Stoddard on upper Main street, where enough liquor was confiscated to warrant a charge of possession. Stoddard was ordered held under $1,000 bond for the Hancock county grand jury in November, when arraigned for a hearing before Justice Morgan Jones.

A second raid, conducted at the home of William Gayheart on Main street, between Avenues C and E, resulted in the finding of liquor and the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. Gayheart on charges of possession and selling. Mrs. Gayheart was arrested along with her husband, when caught in the act of selling officers say. The pair are being held under $1,000 bond for their appearance before the November term of the Hancock county grand jury.

Pete Boudo was picked up on the street in north Weirton on a charge of selling liquor. His arrest on Thursday followed information of Chief Brooks, that Boudo was selling liquor in Weirton. He was released under $1,000 for his appearance before the November term of the grand jury by Squire Justice Fleming.

Anetta Pollis was picked up by the police at the home of Wm. Mitchell on Main street, charged with transporting liquor. When officers visited the home Miss Pollis was out but while the officers lingered, she returned carrying with her a quart of liquor, so officers testified.

A fine of $100 and a sentence of 60 days in the Hancock county jail was meted out to Miss Pollis by Justice Fleming when arraigned for a hearing.

Legion's Trip to France Next Month Will Include Pilgrimage to Graves

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 2.—Although there will be plenty of fun for all the primary purposes of the American Legion journey to France for the convention Sept. 19 to 23, is a sacred pilgrimage to the graves of the soldiers who lie buried in the great American cemeteries abroad and to visit the birthplace of the organization in Paris, Howard P. Savage, national commander, said today in a communication received by J. J. Saslowsky, of Columbus, Department France convention officer of this state.

"The green clad slopes where 30,000 of our comrades rest forever shall see a host of brother veterans come to these resting places and take new inspiration," said National Commander Savage.

The Legion has included all of the great American cemeteries in its official battlefield tours, in France and Flanders. Appropriate exercises will be held in all of the cemeteries where the American troops lie buried. The Legionnaires upon arriving at the cemeteries will assemble standing so that each person is facing an individual grave. All standing at salute an appropriate bugle call will be sounded. A ritual prepared by the Rev. Joseph J. N. Wolfe, national chaplain, will be read. The veterans will then kneel in unison upon the graves. All will remain kneeling with bowed head while the bugler sounds taps. Each of the great cemeteries abroad is in charge of a caretaker who is an ex-service man.

National Commander Savage will signalize the departure of the Legion's pilgrimage to France in Washington by laying a wreath on the

Chop Suey Booths Cutting Deeply Into Dance Hall Business

NEW YORK.—Chop suey restaurants, with their booths and semi-privacy, are cutting into the regular dance hall business, according to Herman Albers, of St. Louis, one of the delegates to the Dancing Masters Convention of America which met recently in New York.

"We don't mind losing this type of trade, however," added Mr. Albers, "as those who want privacy with their dancing usually have bottles on their hips. Our business is good, and getting better."

"Roadhouses, too, are flourishing. This fact also takes away from the regular dance hall trade."

American hardware is increasing in popularity in the provincial districts of China.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST

And He opened His Mouth and taught them
MATTHEW 5:2.
As the year A.D. 27 drew toward its close the fame of Jesus became so great, due to His startling precepts and the miracles which He performed, that great crowds followed Him wherever He preached.

It was at a gathering such as this that Jesus delivered what has come to be His best known sermon. Multitudes surrounded Him, urging Him to preach to them.

Finally He led them up the side of a hill that lay close to the sea, and here He delivered the preaching known as the Sermon on the Mount, which is reported in the Fifth, Sixth, and Seventh chapters of Matthew

The crowds marvelled at this sermon. "For He taught them," Matthew recounts, "as one having authority, and not as the scribes."

LESSON

The Best Things in Life

General Lesson Title—Solomon's Wise Choice.

Scripture Lesson—1 Kings 3, 4:15.

Golden Text—Happy is the man that findeth wisdom, and the man that getteth understanding.—Prov. 3, 13.

ments, as thy father David did walk, then I will lengthen thy days.

15 And Solomon awoke; and, behold, it was a dream; and he came to Jerusalem, and stood before the ark of the covenant of Jehovah, and offered up burnt-offerings, and offered peace-offerings, and made a feast to all his servants.

"TELL ME A STORY"

The day was very warm. Bob didn't feel like picking string beans. It would be so much more fun to be wading with the other boys.

But Bob's daddy had given Bob a short row of bean-vines to care for. He told Bob that if he took good care of the beans . . . and picked them when they were ready . . . and proved that he could be responsible . . . well . . . after that Bob could have a collie puppy of his own! Of course Bob would have to give the puppy very good care . . . and Bob's daddy wanted to find out just how faithful that care would be.

At last Bob's pail was full . . . and there were no more beans ready for picking.

"There!" Bob exclaimed, "I won't have to do that again for two days. I'm going to win that puppy, all right. Whoopee!" he shouted as he ran down to the pond.

He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much.—Luke 16:10.

While hunting near Narromine, Australia, recently, a boy shot a rabbit, and the rifle ball pierced the animal's body, then struck a log, rebounded and landed in the face of a young companion, who had to be taken to a hospital for its removal.

Women Do Charleston and Black Bottom in Paris Beauty Shops

PARIS.—The women are doing the Charleston, the Black Bottom and all the other dances in one of the smart hair-dressing shops in Paris these days. The coiffeur-proprietor of the establishment had tried everything to keep the ladies happy waiting—fine, illustrated paper and magazines, books and even a radio and loud speaker. But all to little avail, they found the time long and many of them went away to have a trim and a wave elsewhere.

Finally, in desperation, he hired a jazz-band, one that has been laid off for the summer. And now everybody is happy. The ladies dance with each other, practice new steps and don't mind how long it is before the barber says, "Your turn, please."

To Be Well the Kidneys Must Thoroughly Eliminate Waste Poisons From the Blood.

To feel constantly lame and achy is often indication of improper elimination. The kidneys are the blood filters, and rid the blood of waste impurities.

Sluggish action, however, does not thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous waste and is apt to make one languid, tired and achy, with dull headaches, dizziness and often a nagging backache. A common warning of imperfect kidney action is scanty or burning excretions.

Assist the kidneys at such times with a stimulant diuretic. Since 1885 Doan's Pills have been winning friends the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Turk-Nash Challenges Cord Tires For $300-$500 Side Bet

Five-Game Series Sought With Any City League Club

Manager John W. Fowler, of Motors Team, Awaits Answer to Defi Open to Rivals in Industrial Circuit.

The Turk-Nash baseball team, occupying the third rung in the City Industrial league's second half race, today issued a challenge to the Superior Cord Tires, of Chester, league leaders, or any other circuit competitor, for a five-game series for a side bet of $300 or $500.

The defi was announced by Manager John W. Fowler, who declared that his club stood ready to meet Frank Riley's cohorts, Homer Laughlin, winner of the first half chase and runner-up today in the second round, or any other league representative.

Fowler said it was immaterial to him when the games were played, but he will insist that any club accepting the challenge must agree to use only players whose names appear on its eligibility list.

Injunction Boys May Hit Champ Fight

Court Action Threat Will Boost Crowd, Writer Says.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—The injunction boys are at it again. An atmosphere, apparently essential to every present-day major boxing event, was being manufactured here today as lawsuits—and threats of lawsuits—resigned at stopping the impending Tunney-Dempsey brawl, were thrown into the judicial grist.

This atmosphere—of quarrelling lawyers and tip toeing sleuths armed with mysterious papers—only augurs, according to those of cynical bent, the complete success of Tex Rickard's greatest promotional venture.

The most important of the legal overtures now in the cocoon stage, is an echo of Tex Rickard's 1926 gesture to hold a heavyweight championship match in Chicago. At that time Dempsey was champion, and one B. C. Clements, of the Chicago Coliseum club, threatened to make things unpleasant on the grounds that Dempsey was under contract to fight for him. He later tried to stop the Philadelphia fight, but failed.

Yesterday, this same B. C. Clements, on behalf of his club, asked the Cook county circuit court to enjoin Jack Dempsey from appearing in the world's title bout scheduled for Soldiers' Field, September 22. The complaint is the same as before, that the ex-champ has not yet fulfilled his obligation to the Coliseum club.

Tex Rickard, George Goetz, his Illinois promoter; the state boxing commissioners, and Floyd Fitzsimmons, and Indiana promoter, were also named with Dempsey as defendants in the suit. A hearing on the injunction plea will be granted next Tuesday.

Managers of the above clubs and Umpires Hall, Duffy and Shaw are requested to be present.

Defeat of Newell Tightens Chester Grip On Bunting

Howell, for Victors, Allowed Only Five Hits in Six Innings, While Grimm and Ashe are Equally Effective on Mound.

The Knowles, Taylor and Knowles team, fresh from a victory over the league-leading Superior Cord Tires defeated the Homer Laughlin team last night, 3 to 1, at Columbian park.

Laughlin, which has won 13 and lost five games, has a slender chance to break even on the second half of the Industrial league fight. To do this they must defeat Turk-Nash this afternoon, and win the play-off with the Wellsville Nash nine.

Off-setting this, Chester, with 15 victories and four defeats to its credit, will play off a postponed game with the Katics in the event Newell captures the Turk-Nash and Wellsville battles.

Laughlin Scores in Third.

Howell, on the mound for the Knowles, Taylor and Knowles club, allowed but five hits in the six innings. Grimm and Ashe, relief men, were equally as effective.

The Katics scored two runs in the first frame. McShane hit through Heckathorne for a single, Hanselman fanned. Simcox lined to center, McShane going to third, and later came home on Crawford's wild throw of Talbot's smash. Simcox went to third on the play and scored on a wild pitch.

The victors' added another run in the second on hits by Merchants, O'Brosky and Merchant.

Laughlin scored its lone run in the third, as a result of safeties by Randall, Grimm, a forced out on Crawford's grounder and Heckathorne's single.

Ashe went to the mound in the third, holding K. T. & K. scoreless during the remainder of the game. He fanned three men.

STEWART'S LETTER

MAJOR PARTIES SEARCH FOR MAN FOR PRESIDENT, SAYS STEWART

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The Review Tribune

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Sunny!—
The trouble the big parties are having, finding anybody who's willing to run for president.

It looks like a nice job—well paid, rent free and a liberal expense account. You wouldn't think 'twould go begging like this. Yet the bosses can hardly dig up an eligible who seems to want to touch it with a 10-foot pole.

Just as fast as a new man's name's mentioned, its owner comes out with an announcement that he's in no sense a candidate—he doesn't choose to be, or he's too old, or the office ought to seek its own victim, or some such reason why not—at least, that's the way he feels about it; he doesn't know what his friends may think.

TRUE, there are two exceptions.
Frank O. Lowden owns up he's hunting the Republican nomination with a double-barrelled shotgun.

Guy Ritchie of Maryland doesn't deny he's on the Democratic nomination's trail with a steel trap.

All honor to Frankie Lowden and Al Ritchie for not being a couple of dumb hypocrites.

BUT suppose the two parties should accept this situation as it lay.

Suppose the Republicans should say, "Well, seeing as nobody else wants our nomination and Frank Low-den does, it looks as if there was nothing for us to do but give it to him."

Suppose the Democrats should remark, "Far as we can see, Ritchie takes first place on our ticket by default."

Imagine what a yell would go up!

IT seems the newspapers have been misrepresenting Senator Carter Glass again.

At the last session of congress they described a trifling "incident," between him and Senator Wheeler, in a way Glass liked so little that he kicked about it, during a talk before the University of Virginia Public Institute recently. In fact, the press interpreted him as demanding a censorship, to make the Washington correspondents cut out sensationalism.

Glass explains now that he never had such an idea—he was merely "deprecating inaccuracy."

AS for the Wheeler "incident," Senator Glass continues, neither he nor the Montana solon "even contemplated fistcuffs."

Well, the Washington correspondents stand corrected, of course. Naturally they don't know what Glass and Wheeler "contemplated." All they'd like to have explained is what made Senator Robinson rush between 'em the way he did, waving his arms like a referee trying to make two scrap-pers break, if he wasn't looking for something exciting, too.

Anyway, for a newspaper man himself, it has to be admitted that Glass has had luck getting himself understood.

WHEN Secretary of Commerce
Hoover pronounces the national business outlook "very fair, for the next five or six months," as he did, in Washington the other day, it's safe to believe he means "very fair" plus.

Hoover isn't a pessimist but sometimes he likes to talk like one.

He's afraid of booms, holding that slumps follow them, as inevitably as the night the day. Consequently, when he sees the commercial curve in the ascendant, he bears down on it for all he's worth.

"Very fair" is positively glowing—for him.

How THE Other

SUGGESTS THREE WEEKS.

DETROIT, Mich.—A woman failed to make a happy choice of an alias name when she was arrested by a patrolman on a charge of being drunk. When Judge John U. Brennan asked her what her name was she said: Elinor Glyn. "If that's the case, the only thing to do is to give you three weeks," said the judge as he sentenced her to the house of correction. She's probably cured of using the name of the author of "Three Weeks."

IT'S FUN FOR THEM.

NEW YORK.—According to Dr.

thodontia at Columbia University, who investigated Eskimo teeth on the Labrador coast, Eskimos enjoy having their teeth pulled. Wide grins after having teeth pulled. None held
